The South Carolina Greenhouse Growers' Association

The SCGGA was founded in 1981 to help growers keep up with the changing market place. We are a gathering of commercial greenhouse growers, educators, retailers, and other interested individuals. We are here to help one another with growing techniques, marketing strategies, and the overall expansion of our industry.

The objectives of our Association are to advance the interest of the floriculture industry through education, research, and marketing improvements; to maintain integrity, good faith, good will, and the just principles of business in the industry; and, to strive in every way to promote the best interest of its members.

We work to support our industry by sponsoring horticulture students at various events and hosting interns. We also co-sponsor events with related industry associations in order to provide a wide range of opportunities for our members.

Why Should YOU Join?

Problem solving —

You cannot beat shared experiences. Have you ever had a greenhouse related problem that you were not able to solve? It's likely that a fellow member has experienced the same problem, solved it, and will share its solution with you. Intra-Association fellowship is promoted.

Continuing Education —

A must for you to be competitive. The SCGGA presents short courses highlighting the greenhouse grower via informative presentations on specific crops and state of the art greenhouse cultural practices.

Industry Promotion —

Grower groups develop marketing and promotion strategies that encourage the public to purchase, grow, and enjoy our foliage and flowering plants.

Member Benefits —

- Field Days and Tours
- Association Website
- Legislative Events
